

PENN VICTORIOUS OVER MICHIGAN

Gallagher Gets Only Touchdown on an Outside Kick---Each Team Crosses Goal Line Later, but Both Touchdowns Are Called Back.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 16.—Eastern football triumphed once more over the West this afternoon when Pennsylvania defeated Michigan on Ferry Field by the score of 6 to 0. It was Michigan's first defeat on Ferry Field. Twice the Maize and Blue teams have been tied on their own grounds, but never before defeated. Weather conditions were ideal, and 18,000 spectators saw the game. Pennsylvania's score represents one touchdown and goal, for which a cleverly executed onside kick, which enabled Gallagher to cross Michigan's goal with the ball, was responsible.

Both Michigan and Pennsylvania carried the ball across the goal lines in the second half on forward passes, only to have the referee disallow the touchdowns and call the ball back because of illegalities in the plays. Both teams were in magnificent physical condition, and time was taken out for injuries less than half a dozen times. It was generally conceded at the close of the game that Pennsylvania showed superiority throughout both halves. The Red and Blue kept the play in Michigan's territory more than three-quarters of the time.

Michigan won the toss and elected to defend the west goal. Hollenback kicked off for Pennsylvania and for the first ten minutes of play the ball was kept constantly in the middle of the field, neither team being able to obtain a decided advantage. There was frequent punting by both sides.

A short on-side kick after Pennsylvania had worked the ball to within striking distance of the Michigan goal line brought Pennsylvania her winning touchdown. Several men touched the ball and juggled it before it landed in Gallagher's hands. The Pennsylvania guard ran across the line and placed it squarely between Michigan's goal posts. Scarlett kicked goal. This ended the scoring for the afternoon. Penalties were frequent for holding and off-side plays, the officials being severe toward both teams. Pennsylvania was penalized fifteen yards once because Hollenback hurdled Rumney.

Just before the close of the first half Michigan made its first use of the forward pass. The play worked well and gained 32 yards. A second trial was not successful, Scarlett breaking up Michigan's formation and Pennsylvania securing the ball. The first half ended with the ball in Pennsylvania's possession in mid-field.

Both teams used the forward pass more freely in the second half, and each scored a touchdown by its use which was not allowed. The Pennsylvania had worked the ball inside of Michigan's 10-yard line when Keinath made a clever forward pass to Pauxtis, who carried it across the goal line. The 500 Pennsylvania supporters broke into wild cheering, but the officials ruled that there had been holding on the part of the Pennsylvania line, and disallowed the touchdown. Pennsylvania protested vigorously, but in vain.

Michigan's touchdown which was disallowed followed soon after. Following an exchange of punts, Michigan tried a triangular forward pass which worked successfully for a good gain. Schultz passed the ball back to Watkins, who threw it over to Magoffin, drawing the Pennsylvania team to that side, and the Michigan Captain then passed it to Hammond, who advanced it 20 yards.

Another trick forward pass followed, on which Magoffin carried the ball under Pennsylvania's goal. The Michigan supporters cheered themselves hoarse, but the effort was wasted, the officials calling the ball back, declaring that on the forward pass it had not gone five yards outside of the point where the ball was put in play.

Pennsylvania kept the ball in Michigan's territory throughout the rest of the game, which ended with the ball in Pennsylvania's possession on Michigan's 30-yard line.

Hollenback outpunted Hammond throughout, and Scarlett played with marked brilliancy. For Michigan the work of Schultz, the giant centre, was one of the features of the afternoon. He outplayed Dwyer and broke through repeatedly, making a number of brilliant tackles. Watkins at fullback, playing his first big game, also did remarkably well. Both teams showed a splendid defense.

AT THE GRADUATES' CLUB.

Plays at Ann Arbor Reproduced Here for Benefit of Alumni.

Michigan Alumni yesterday got as close as circumstances would permit them to the big East versus West football game at Ann Arbor when they, with other college graduates, assembled at the Graduates' Club, 11 East Forty-fourth Street, to hear the returns from the Penn-Michigan contest.

The affair was arranged chiefly for the benefit of former students of the University of Michigan, though there were graduates from Yale, Princeton, Harvard, Dartmouth, Cornell, Amherst, and other minor educational institutions located in different parts of the United States. A miniature gridiron had been erected in the main room of the clubhouse, and a special wire connected with the field at Ann Arbor.

There were just two University of Pennsylvania enthusiasts on hand, both '08 men, and they had the time of their lives watching the Michigans root and whoop it up for their favorites. The Westerners certainly cut loose with yells and cheers when the ball was moving in Penn territory.

Often the shouts seemed deserved, especially when the returns favored Michigan. At times, however, the operator, evidently realizing where he was and the occasion, took some liberties with the Morse code and raised hope in the breasts of the Michigans.

About ten minutes or so before the game ended Claude Thompson, who did the announcing through an improvised megaphone of cardboard, cleared his throat, adjusted his eye-glasses, and announced:

"Michigan, by working a double forward pass, gains 25 yards. Michigan makes another game. Michigan scores a touchdown!"

One who is unacquainted with the doings of such a gathering might have thought that Bedlam had really broken loose, or that a thousand chariots had been sent away to race. Everybody cheered and whooped and shouted apparently at the same time.

While the noise was at its greatest Guy Jocelyn, who led the Michigan chorus all through the session, began with the "locomotive" of Michigan.

"Oh for a goal—just one measly goal," Jocelyn muttered in the quiet after the storm. "Just a goal—"

The telegraph key worked again and the message was turned over to Thompson. One glance and his cheeks turned pale and his jaw dropped.

"Boys, boys," he read with much difficulty, "the umpire—says—that—it—was—an—illegal—forward—pass—and—that—he—won't—allow—the touchdown."

The news fell upon the crowd like a thunderbolt. Gloom seemed to have settled all over the place, save where the two University of Pennsylvania men were sitting. They chuckled somewhat provokingly, to be sure, for they were already six points to the good.
